

Dear Friends,

The phrase “better safe than sorry” means precisely what it says. It is better and certainly safer to take precautionary measures before anything bad happens. The proverb has been traced back to 'Rory O'More by the Irish Novelist Samuel Lover (1797-1868). It was first attested in the 'United States in 'Murder at the Hunting Club' by M. Plum.

Well, that's what we did last Sunday! So, while the weather was not as harsh as was indicated, we all got a vacation from church meaning that we should have a very full sanctuary this week. In an effort to be good stewards, we will use last week's bulletin so be patient with changes as they are announced. And feel free to reread Mark 8:27-35 to prepare.

Blessings,

Julie
