

Donnelley Financial Solutions is an In-Kind Underwriter and donates all the printing for the General Counsel Forum each year

Donnelley Financial Solutions, Inc. (NYSE: DFIN) provides financial communications and data services for the investment and capital markets worldwide. We offer virtual data rooms to facilitate the deal management requirements of capital markets and mergers & acquisitions transactions; and data and analytics services that help professionals uncover intelligence from financial disclosure contained within public filings made at the SEC. The company continues its traditional business of offering communication tools and services to allow its clients to comply with ongoing regulatory filings, primarily with the SEC; and communications services to create, manage, and deliver registration statements, prospectuses, proxies, and other communications to the SEC and its current & potential shareholders and investors. In addition, we offer language solutions, including translation, editing, interpreting, proof-reading, and multilingual typesetting; and specialized content services, such as copywriting, linguistic validation by subject matter experts, transcription, voice-over, subtitling, and localization, as well as application testing and quality assurance. The company's headquarters are located in Chicago, Illinois.
