OUR DALLAS OFFICE has more than 20 attorneys who provide legal services to local, national and international clients based in the Dallas region and elsewhere. The Dallas attorneys are members of larger national practices combining the talents, strengths, and resources of attorneys from across the firm's 19 offices.

The region supports a high concentration of information technology-related companies, which join such thriving industry sectors as banking, commerce, telecommunications, computer technology, energy and transportation. Dallas serves as a convenient and centrally located business hub for Perkins Coie to advise and counsel international clients, particularly those based in Texas.

Areas of practice our Dallas-based attorneys emphasize include corporate, technology, commercial litigation, labor and employment, consumer credit and structured finance, bankruptcy and real estate. These include corporate formation and financing, securities, mergers and acquisitions, technology transactions, privacy, business litigation, insurance recovery litigation and counseling, labor and employment litigation and counseling, energy, oil and gas, consumer regulatory and litigation matters, commercial and real estate lending, real estate development and commercial and real estate workouts. The firm's India practice is also based in our Dallas office and is representative of the significant cross-border and international transactional work that attorneys in the office handle.
