Icelandic Paintings by Aimee Jette

Aimee founded Art in Common, Inc. in early 2016 after spending much of her life in the corporate world as a producer and designer. She is a mentor for recently resettled refugees with the resettlement agency, International Institute of CT (IIConn) in Bridgeport, CT and helped launch Refugee Resettlement Ridgefield in her hometown.

Aimee studies Jordanian Arabic, Icelandic, travels as often as possible, is a private pilot and painter. She was been awarded a month long artist residency in Laugavatn, Iceland in July 2016 where she focused on techniques to bring back to the work she does here in the States. She plans to further her education with graduate studies in Communication, specializing in Social Justice.

Aimee lives in Bridgeport with her husband, Alex, and four daughters.

Art in Common, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) community outreach non-profit charitable organization based in Ridgefield, CT whose mission is to promote creativity, increase community awareness around important social issues and foster connection across diverse populations. Creative connection focusing on what we share, facilitates compassion and understanding