Educators Rising “The Art of Teaching” Conference

Educators Rising is a Career Tech organization to help students interested in the teaching profession. There are several opportunities that your students can participate with the organization like newsletters, social media, Educators Rising membership, the Educators Rising Ohio state conference on March 16-17th, workshop break-out sessions at the conference, college fair at the conference, competitions including being a state officer, and the national and state Educators Rising website platform. Here are a few quick links to help you get started!
