

From February 1st Gordon Smith Guitars and Auden Guitars will be available in the UK exclusively through DIST-X distribution.

Gordon Smith

A

AUDEN

Founded in 1974, Gordon Smith is the UK's longest running electric guitar manufacturer. Gordon Smith Guitars have powered some of the world's most famous bands including the Buzzcocks and the Stone Roses.

Auden Guitars are handcrafted by a small group of highly skilled luthiers using traditional methods and the very finest materials. Precision applied bindings, perfect joints and beautifully dressed frets are the details highlighting the extreme craftsmanship dedicated to every guitar.

Auden Musical Instrument Company Managing Director Doug Sparkes comments:

"We are delighted to be working with DIST-X Distribution and to have them distributing our guitars. There are many shared values between our organisations and they are a perfect fit to represent Auden and Gordon Smith. Market expertise, product knowledge and passion for music is evident throughout the DIST-X team and we are excited by the opportunity that this agreement brings. We look forward to working closely and successfully together."

DIST-X Sales Manager Drew McDonald adds:

"We are excited to have Auden and Gordon Smith guitars in the DIST-X portfolio. The heritage of Gordon Smith combined with the high quality of Auden guitars strengthens the DIST-X portfolio and gives us an incredible product and margin offering to UK dealers. My team and I are looking forward to the opportunities ahead."
