Tuesday, November 8, 2016, was a busy day at Cayce United Methodist Church. The calendar was full of activity. It was the last day that the All-State Honors Chorus was auditioning in the educational wing; over a four day period, high school chorus students (about 2,000 of them) lifted their voices in song throughout our campus. In the morning, the morning UMW circle met in the parlor. In the afternoon, the grief recovery group coordinated by Thompson Funeral Home met there. Chambers Hall was the site for Cayce Precinct 3 in the 2016 general election.

Cayce UMC is not just a Sunday morning, one-day-a-week place for worship; this church is in mission and ministry seven days a week. In fact, there are days each week that there are several events on the church calendar. Not only are there our church sponsored events or events by church groups, our mission partners are busy. Our mission partners include the girl scouts, addiction recovery groups, grief support groups, the South Carolina Annual Conference Committee on Nominations, the City of Cayce, and Helping Hands Adult Day Care. Some of these groups meet weekly, monthly, or a couple of times a year; they all follow policies and procedures set by the Board of Trustees of Cayce UMC.

Mission partners allow us to multiply the church’s mission to change lives and transform communities for Christ. The campus and buildings are more than a financial asset. It is more than a space just for those who worship and learn here. The campus and ample building space is a mission platform. It equips us to make a difference in this community. It is a safe and secure space and a welcoming place. In 2017, the Board of Trustees will assess further improvements to enhance our ministry; look for that plan in the first six months of 2017. We are thankful for the ways God has worked through us to be good stewards and deliberate missionaries in and through the property at 1600 12th Street Cayce SC.

May God bless the work that happens here.

Peace,

Joseph
