CHRISTIAN SCHOOL

Director of Development

Trinity Christian School in Prescott, AZ, a Christian school serving nearly 300 students in grades K-12, is accepting applications for the position of Director of Development.

Success while serving as Director of Development is defined as growing support for the mission of Trinity Christian School by building positive relationships with potential donors through effective communication, personal requests to give, and disciplined follow-through. Serving the school through the work of Development, the Director of Development will fill a crucial role by applying the school's strategy and approach to engage individuals in face-to-face dialogue about investing long-term in Trinity Christian School.

Candidates for this position should have a proven track record in major donor development and growing ongoing financial support for a mission-driven organization or have equivalent experience in a similar field.
