Loud, sassy, and relentless, the Rude Parrot has an insatiable appetite for hops! Brewed with Vienna, light Crystal, and a touch of Honey malt, this golden hued IPA is aggressively hopped with Simcoe and Citra hops. A big juicy, tropical fruit, citrusy hop aroma yields way to an off dry, pleasantly bitter finish.

2) 7 Seas Pilsner (5.2% ABV/ 32 IBU)

This NW Pilsner pays homage to those local brewers who came long before us, a shout-out to our home, the 253. Our NW spin on a classic pilsner-style lager. 2) Eh Tu, Bainbridge? (6.3% ABV/ 75 IBU)

Experimental Sandbox Series #8 is our version of an emerging beer style: Brut IPA. The idea behind this beer is to make it as dry as possible like a "Hop Champagne," allowing the hops to take center-stage in a super light colored, crazy dry but not overly bitter beer. The mash consisted of pilsner malt, corn and rye. Amarillo hops give their classic grapefruit character, with tropical and blackberry notes coming from the Mosaic. Experimental hops HBC 342 gives a rounded pleasant light citrus, tropical, and melon character. It's a very unique, scary delicious, weirdo thing...

Beer list as of 7/9/18

Dubbel is a beer-style as classic as the idea of combining malt with hops, this tasty beer has been brewed in Belgian monasteries for 1000 years. “Dubbel” or double in Flemish refers to these beers high, or doubled, alcohol content. The high alcohol content is balanced with a rich toffee-sweetness and finishes with the customary Belgian flavor profile of fresh banana and cloves. Grab a Dubbel Header and taste some delicious beer history!

2016 GABF Silver medalist

3) Frenetic Belgian IPA (8% ABV/ 73 IBU)

New hops out of South Africa, Southern Passion and African Queen, excite us to no end. Our minds raced with the thoughts of passionfruit, dankness, currants, and berry flavors and aromas we'd experience. Pairing these hops with a slightly spicy Belgian yeast and a malt bill consisting of Pale/Vienna/Biscuit/Special B, Frenetic is an IPA that'll make you go manic as well.

This award-winning IPA was brewed with Cryo Hops: the most innovative hop technology known to man!
