

Friday,
October 28th, 2016
St. Mary's Hall
9AM-5PM

ART

INTO

PUBLIC

SPACES

The conference events are free and open to the public.

The conference on "Art into Public Spaces" proposes to explore new trends, tendencies, and practices in reevaluating and reenvisioning public spaces and communities in Russia during the early twenty-first century. Invited speakers will present their views regarding the recent resurgence of interest—in Russia and beyond—in the role of art in the creation, maintaining, and empowering of the "public space."

Participants include:

VALERA and NATASHA CHERKASHIN, Maya Brin Residents

ANETA GEORGIEVSKA-SHINE, Department of Art History & Archaeology, University of Maryland

MICHAEL KUNICHIKA, Department of Slavic Languages & Literatures, Harvard University

ALLA ROSENFELD, Department of Art History and Department of Slavic Languages & Literatures, Rutgers University

JANE SHARP, Department of Art History and Zimmerli Art Museum, Rutgers University

ALEKSANDRA SHATSKIKH, Independent Scholar, New York

SVEN SPIEKER, Comparative Literature Program, University of California, Santa Barbara

Moderated by STEVEN MANSBACH, Department of Art History & Archaeology, University of Maryland

COLLEGE OF ARTS & HUMANITIES

For more information please visit:
ter.ps/cherkashin