

Jason Moos

Client Account Manager

Jason started at Portland Internetworks in 2016, although we had been running in to him in the community long before that. His good humor and friendly disposition quickly won everyone over. As the Client Account Manager he leads with that award winning personality; you'll never see him show up with anything less than a friendly smile, a crisp shirt, and an attention to detail that he wields like a Jedi Master. He's all about building lasting relationships with his clients, listening closely, acting quickly, and removing any obstacle that might impede their growth and success. His background in the Air Force, manufacturing, and banking means he's no stranger to accomplishing the mission.

In Jason's down time (if you can call it that) he's active in his community: running marathons, throwing themed parties, attending concerts, and volunteering. He has an encyclopedic obsession with comic books, a purists take on the Star Wars trilogy, and childlike passion for sci-fi classics that harken back to early works of Steven Spielberg and Robert Zemeckis. However, none of that can hold a candle to the love he has for his two precocious kids, Harper Mae, 4, and Auston, 12.
