

DC Arts and Humanities Education Collaborative More Than Cherry Blossoms: A Forum on Local Programming in a National City

Monday, October 30, 2017 3:30-6:00 p.m.,
Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History
10th St. & Constitution Ave. NW,

Agenda:

- Welcome Remarks- Shari Rosenstein Werb, Assistant Director for Education and Outreach, Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History
- DC Collaborative Welcome Remarks- Lissa Rosenthal-Yoffe, DC Arts and Humanities Education Collaborative
- What does it mean to be a national organization in a local place?
 - Moderator- Linda Donovan Harper, President, DC Collaborative Board of Directors
 - Nik Apostolides, Deputy CEO, U.S. Capitol Visitor Center
 - Sarah Jencks, Director of Education and Interpretation, Ford's Theatre Society
 - Jeanette McCune, Director of School and Community Programs, The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts
 - Gregory McGruder, Vice President for Live Events, National Geographic Society
 - Barbara Stauffer, Chief of Community Programs and Partnerships, Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History
- Q & A

*A special thanks to our co-host,
Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History!*

Celebrating 20 Years of Providing Equitable Access to Arts and Humanities Education

It's our birthday! Give us a gift- dccollaborative.org/donate

20 Years of Equitable Access for DC Students

#CollectiveImpact #CollaborativeEffect @DCCollaborative