2017 Doctor of Distinction

Dr. José-Alain Sahel is the global leader in translational research for treatments of currently untreatable, inherited and age-related ocular diseases. As founder and director of the Institute de la Vision in Paris, a world leading site for translational research in every area of science to restore vision, Dr. Sahel brings a strong neuroscience perspective to ophthalmology research, such as exploring the application of brain-computer interface technology, for which Pitt and UPMC are well known.
