Parents and Caregivers.....

- Do you find yourself tired and needing a break from your parenting responsibilities?

- Ever feel like you need more personal time to bond with others and your young adult needs time to create friendships with others?

- Do you want to feel assured that your youth or young adult will be in an enjoyable, safe and socially stimulating environment?

We know that parenting teens and young adults with autism and related special needs can take a huge emotional toll on caregivers. Here are our program goals for you and your family!

- Provision of a mental health break for parents
- The encouragement and facilitation of friendships and promotion of social awareness and skills
- Acquisition of life and self-care skills
- The celebration of each youth's unique personality and abilities via creative arts and recreational activities!
- Having loads of fun!
