Yale Young Global Scholars Program

*An unparalleled academic and leadership program at Yale University and abroad
Empowering the next generation of leaders, building a global community, & inspiring creative action across all borders*

THE APPLICATION FOR THE YYGS SUMMER 2017 SESSIONS IN NEW HAVEN IS NOW OPEN

The Yale Young Global Scholars Program (YYGS) will offer six unique interdisciplinary sessions on Yale's campus in 2017. Bringing together extraordinary students from around the world, each session is designed to hone students' abilities to understand and think critically about contemporary global issues. Students will have the opportunity to learn from distinguished Yale faculty members, participate in seminars designed and led by current Yale students, and engage with practitioners who are renowned leaders in their fields – all while experiencing the world-class facilities and resources that Yale University has to offer. After participating in the program, each student will join our global community of YYGS alumni, spanning more than 100 countries.

Admission to the program is very selective. We offer need-based scholarships and encourage students from any country and all financial backgrounds to apply. Current high school sophomores and juniors and international equivalents are eligible to apply.

Dear High School Counselor,

Students are often curious where participants from our summer programs end up going to college. Below is a great video made by our Summer College alumni who are now attending Duke and some good news about where past participants are currently attending college. We would like to ask you to share the video and information with your students and parents. Please pass this information along through your school newsletter, email, or on your bulletin boards. Thank you!

Curious about what Duke Summer College/Academy students are up to now? Take a look at the video below to hear from a few of our past students who are living their dream by studying at Duke University:

New Summer Scholars Courses

Summer Scholars is a two-week residential program that introduces high school students to college-level academics in fields ranging from the liberal arts to the sciences and business. We are excited to share some new and exciting courses of study for Summer Scholars 2017:

- From Malcolm X to the Beatles: Youth Activism & Repression in the 60's — Taking a global perspective expanding over several decades, students will examine youth activism today. This course will use a multilayered approach to contextualize modern revolutions, from Black Lives Matter protests to the LGBT movement. Concentrating primarily on the 1960's in select communities of color in the U.S. and Latin America, students will develop an understanding of how past activism and discrimination played a role in shaping the world we know today.
- World Politics & the Struggle for Power: An Introduction to International Relations — International conflict is not new. Contemporary debate rages over such diverse issues as intervention in Syria, ISIS and global terrorism, the causes of war, nuclear proliferation, transatlantic and pacific trade partnerships, financial reform, and global climate change. Understanding and resolving complex issues such as these requires a deeper understanding of how politics works in the international system. This course will provide students with an introduction to the study of international relations, including several approaches to and issues in the field.
