

Real Art Ways Andy Hart Photo Exhibit

The Welcoming Committee meeting had to be postponed, because many of the members past and present were going to Real Art Ways to celebrate the photography of Andy Hart. It was a perfect substitution for a meeting about welcoming immigrants into Asylum Hill and Hartford. Andy has been at nearly every event that the Committee hosted to document it in photos.

The exhibit consisted of 65 photos of more than 20 of the many and varied cultures, many of them immigrants, that are Hartford. In most of them, the color and movement convey the exuberance that these people feel toward their traditional dances and celebrations. In some there is a sense of shyness or uncertainty that likely reflects their unfamiliarity in their new home. All of them convey the richness of humanity that is Hartford.

For those that are familiar with Andy

Hart's work, and that includes everyone who is a regular reader of The Hartford News, you know that people pictures, while a significant portion of his body of work is not the full extent of it. His scenes of various landmarks around Hartford as well as interesting architecture and landscapes show that he is a capable and well-rounded photographer. It's great to see his work being celebrated, and it's great to be able to see so many of his excellent photos all together. That opportunity continues through November 12th from 2:00 - 9:00 pm at Real Art Ways, 56 Arbor St.

For more photos of the reception go to <https://photos.app.goo.gl/EP6EcGAaoxrjU0wi2>

