Governor's Tech Summit hosted at Gigafactory 1

On October 9, Gigafactory 1 hosted Governor Brian Sandoval's first tech summit – an opportunity to celebrate Nevada's economic comeback from the depths of the recession. State legislators, local business leaders and economic development officials participated in roundtables and listened to a panel discussion featuring leadership from Tesla, Panasonic and Blockchains. Tesla CEO Elon Musk also spoke with Governor Sandoval about the company's plans for growth and regional infrastructure needs for Northern Nevada.

RGJ: Tesla's culinary program helps grow local business

Tesla recently hosted the Reno Gazette-Journal for an exclusive look at our unique culinary program here at Gigafactory. Tesla's local food initiative has grown to encompass 20 outdoor food trucks, 9 markets run by Rounds Bakery of Reno, a central space for Roundabout Catering of Sparks, cafés run by Sakana Sushi and Bangkok Cuisine of Reno, and a 19,000+ square foot dining space for team members. A great example of enormous growth as a result of this collaboration is Rounds Bakery – they grew from a single market in the Gigafactory in 2016 to 11 markets today, and continue to expand. Because of their presence at Tesla, they've hired 50 additional employees to accommodate demand, supply chain, and logistics.

Tesla Participates in City of Reno's Veterans Day Parade

On Sunday, November 11th, Gigafactory 1 team members participated in the City of Reno's annual Veterans Day Parade with a custom-wrapped Tesla Model S and a Tesla Model 3.

We're proud of the veterans working at Tesla, and their dedication, commitment and work ethic to helping transition the world to sustainable energy. Throughout the week, uniforms of Tesla Veterans were on display in the Gigafactory lobby to celebrate the service of our incredible employees who've served. To date, Tesla has hired more than 800 U.S. military veterans, and our hiring numbers continue to increase year-over-year.
