First Congregational Church of Antioch

September 2017, Issue 8

From the CPC Pastor

Dear Friends,

Another hot summer is upon us, which has also brought much consternation for me as the heat of conflict in our culture has led to public violence over Civil War era monuments, the emboldened White Supremacist movement, and a culture that hasn't taken Climate Change seriously enough to protect Houston and other cities from the ravages of more powerful hurricanes.

I mentioned to someone the other day that the last six months have felt like two years have already gone by. That's a lot of change.

At least we are now, finally, having a real conversation about White Supremacy in our culture. The boldness of groups attempting to take over public places with the threat of violence, or wearing assault rifles, has long troubled me. The rhetoric of the last election surely emboldened many who I hope would otherwise not be bold enough to feel such actions were publicly sanctioned. It's further proof that the tenor of our public discourse really does matter, and has real life consequences for many of those in groups that are targeted.

You may not have heard, but within the first three months of this Administration there were approximately 2,000 hate crimes in the US. The clear majority of these heinous acts were targeted at Muslims, Mexicans, Hispanics and other people of color. An Indian man was shot inside a restaurant in the Midwest, and violence against Sikhs occurred as a function of Islamophobia since most Americans don't know the difference between a Punjabi wearing a turban and a Muslim.

What didn't make most news outlets, was that 10% of those hate crimes were targeting Jews. Our President has refrained from saying anything in support or against such Anti-Semitic acts until forced

Dear Friends,

May Peace Prevail on Earth

These are the words inscribed on the Peace Pole that is planted in the court yard between the Social Hall and the Sanctuary. Now that we have been worshipping in the Social Hall, many of us walk by the Peace Pole all the time. If you have walked by it, have you noticed it? Have you stopped next to it, paused, offered a prayer? Have you placed flowers at the base of the pole in memory of those killed or harmed by violence? Have you stopped to marvel at the many different languages inscribed on the pole? Have you felt the presence of peace as you have stood silently in the presence of the pole?

If your answer is "yes" to these questions...wonderful. If your answer is "no," I would encourage you to pause next time you pass the pole and notice what you experience. What happens when you become aware of the pole and its meaning?

The Peace Pole is a powerful symbol in our midst and calls us to be aware of the need for peace in our lives and the world. In beautiful symbolic form it reminds us that peace making is always about building bridges across differences. The fact that so many different languages are included on the pole speaks to this truth.

Peace is actually an extraordinary concept...the idea that human beings in the midst of their incredible differences can learn to live in harmony. Often times, conflict seems inevitable as people strategize how best to create environments that support their self interests at the expense of others. How extraordinary it is to be called to a worldview that calls us to value other people's well being as much as we value our own. As Christian folks, our faith calls us to love our neighbor as much as we love ourselves.

to recently. Perhaps it was the blatant Anti-Semitic and Anti-Jewish rhetoric used in Charlottesville, where marchers chanted "Jews will not replace us" as the torch bearing marchers encircled the Episcopal Church where some of my friends were in attendance for an Interfaith peace service. Some there feared for their lives and snuck out back doors to evade the crowd.

I've wondered how President Trump's own daughter and son-in-law, who are Orthodox Jewish, have felt over the last few weeks – especially at his largely silent response to the hate speech of the White Supremacists, White Nationalists and even KKK leader David Duke who publicly thanks President Trump for siding with his cause.

The other strange silence in our culture right now is from Fundamentalist Christians, many of whom haven't responded at all or don't think that such rhetoric has a genuine human cost. An extreme group this week signed a very patriarchal, misogynistic statement against the inclusion of LGBTQ people in the church. Their document, called the Nashville Statement, from a group of 150 evangelicals calling themselves the Council of Biblical Manhood and Womanhood, attempts to enforce their narrow view of social mores on the rest of (the vast majority) of Christians. What is amazing, is that the statement contains precious few quotations from Jesus, the prophets or the epistles. They attempt to label as biblical their views on limiting gender to the dualistic binary of male and female, making no room for the diversity of gender identities and expressions that even the Jewish sages of the Mishna and Talmud recognized in the time of Jesus.

Such voices within Christianity seem to be louder than others since that wing of Christianity has created quite the radio, television and media systems. It is said that Jerry Falwell had a TV camera in his basement so he could go on TV at any time to provide a "Christian" answer to every issue being discussed in the national discourse. Of course, no moderate, progressive or liberal voices have been called upon in such a manner. The Family Research Council, an honest to goodness "hate group" according to the Southern Poverty Law Center (Dr. King's organization) and yet, their president and spokesperson is called upon often, not just by Fox News, but CNN, MSNBC and even the East Bay Times when a quote is needed.

We have been seeing the result of this phenomenon in the last few decades as more and more people reject faith in any form. Most people can't make the distinctions between a Progressive, love and justice and welcoming based Christianity from over-generalizations they may have experienced from Evangelical and Fundamentalist circles. It's also easier to lump us all together when they may have been hurt by a church, and more Progressive congregations also contribute to the "church-hurt."

If there was ever a time for us all to take our faith more and more public, even just on social media, or in the tenor of our conversations – now is the time. Reclaiming our place as the kind, justice seeking followers of Jesus of Nazareth may be a little more difficult than it was before, but it is also more important for us to do so – today and in the days to come.

Together we serve...

Pastor Christy continues...

As a result, we find ourselves committed to working to address suffering, oppression and injustice as it manifests not only in our lives, but in the lives of others. To be invested in the well being of others is foundational to our lives as people of faith. This is truly an amazing life calling. On some fundamental level this means working for peace...working to create a world where each person is valued and resources are shared to sustain diverse, harmonious communities. In the words of the prayer often used as we light the Peace Candle on Sunday morning at the beginning of worship.

"Holy God, help us to open our hearts to the grace that meets us here in this sacred time and place. May we embrace your call to witness to hope and offer peace to a broken world. Be with us as we work for a world where all are safe, none are targeted, and all are included in the circle of community. We invoke Christ's peace, a peace that transforms hatred into love, stops violence, heals alienation and blesses the lost. Help us to open our hearts to your peace so we may be peacemakers in your name. May there be peace on earth. Amen."

We will gather around the Peace Pole at the end of our worship service on September 10th as a way to stand in solidarity with others working to create peace in the world. The International Day of Peace is celebrated on September 21. The day "aims at strengthening the ideals of unity and equality, diversity and oneness, harmony and compassion and, above all, at advancing the culture of peace."

On that day people around the world join together to envision a world where peace prevails. I encourage each of us to find ways to participate in this global effort. The Interfaith Council of Contra Costa County is sponsoring a number of local event during the days before and after the International Day of Peace. Additionally, the United Nations is inviting the world to a moment of silence on September 21.

Whatever you choose to do, please pause at 12 Noon local time and join people all across the globe in a Minute of Silence/Moment of Peace.

Blessed are the peace makers,

Christy

Save the Date for CPC Fundraiser: CPC is planning a Holiday Tea fundraiser for Saturday afternoon, December 2 in the Social Hall. So, save the date and plan to attend and details will come later in the fall. What will be unique about this tea is the theme: we plan to feature a variety of creches/nativity sets. We will have tables set up displaying creches, and are asking you to contribute to the success of this event by sharing yours for the day. We would like to have a wide variety of creches: primitive, elegant, ethnic, wood, ceramic, pottery, fabric, metal, etc. Maybe you have one you got on a trip, or as a gift, or made yourself, or had for your children to handle. We will not allow them to be touched by our guests, they are just for their viewing pleasure. If you have any you would like to share for the day please let Cherie Persing (925-439-7881 or cheriepersing@comcast.net) or Myrdell Dybdal (925-858-7752 or quiltingmd@aol.com) know. ## You Ought to Be in Pictures! Take Two!

Our photographer, the lovely Melissa Paniagua, has requested a re-take for our group picture. So we have scheduled Rally Sunday, September 17, for our new picture day. Please plan to attend worship that day, wear a bright color, and afterwards stick around for a group photo shoot. Shouldn't take long, and it will become part of our welcoming and marketing material for the upcoming year. The plan is to do this annually. Hope you can make it! Bring a friend or two!

Care Team offering

The first Sunday of each month has traditionally been Deacons' Sunday at Community Presbyterian Church – it will now be Care Team Sunday at ECSM.

The Care team has a special fund for persons in need who come to our church looking for emergency support. The fund has been used to provide housing, food or gasoline to help families who find themselves in difficult circumstances.

Special envelopes are available in the pew racks for those who wish to help the Care Team provide support for those in need coming to our church seeking help.

The Care Team thanks everyone for their continued support.

Hurricane Harvey from Our Piece of Texas

We want to thank our church family in California for all the texts and emails of concern we received. It is wonderful to have all the prayers and good wishes sent our way. The devastation here in Houston and the Gulf Coast is just unbelievable – we are sure you have been watching on TV as we have. Texans are something else – you don't have to ask for help - they are just there. We have commented that we didn't see the same kind of volunteer force appear from all around during the early days of Katrina.

Here in the Harmony community we have been a peninsula surrounded on all four sides by water. We are so blessed we have everything we need right here. Our HEB (grocery store) was closed Monday, but then open from 9am to 3pm (so their employees can come & go in daylight for safer driving). Shelves were empty yesterday by 2 when we got there - but said they will restock milk, bread, eggs, etc. today. The empty shelves made me think that this must be what it is like in a 3rd world country. We have emergency clinics and gas stations (with gas) open. All the fast food places, local restaurants & local small businesses are closed. The highways and roads were flooded and some are still closed. Rain water did build in the street in front of the house but never got higher than our calves. On our drive around we didn't see any homes that appeared flooded but we didn't go back in the sections where the in road was completely covered with water. Our doctor's office isn't too far from here and they are flooded. We did experience power outages and water pressure was very weak. During the heaviest downpours - we still saw a slight swirl from water going down the drains ever so slowly. Nights were the scariest with the heaviest rains, wind, some thunder and lightning and having to go down the hall and open the front door to see how far the water was up our driveway (never got as high as during the May 2016 flood). When we checked our rain gauge early Saturday we had 8"; checked again on Sunday at 7:15 am we had an additional 6.5", Tuesday at around noon we got an additional 7"-then the rain started to taper off; skies were still dark and the wind was blowing. As the afternoon progressed the sky got lighter and lighter and the clouds were white. We checked the gauge and it was only a 1/2" - for a grand total of 22". By early last night (Tuesday) the air changed - it was fresh with a little wind and humidity was low - you could hear the summer bugs & critters. Went out the front door looked to the right - the kids down the end of the street had gotten out their hoop and were playing basketball. Straight down the street from the house the kids were playing tag and neighbors were walking their dogs - for us the storm was over!!!

During this storm Jan has been working out of the house (when we had power)- they had mandatory check ins - some of her colleagues had problems some have water damage, one had to be evacuated in a boat, and another had lost water pressure to the house.

Sunday night the 27th our church music director, Valerie, passed away - she fought the good fight for 3 years but the cancer won - her husband Ralph was with her at MD Anderson. He was stuck there at MD Anderson since the roads going into the Medical Center were under water. He asked for prayers that he could get out and be with their 2 children - he finally got home Tuesday afternoon. We kept in contact with people from church - so far no one knows of anyone whose home was flooded, Pastor Mak is safe, the church building is OK although the parking lot and the prayer garden flooded. Our friend, Terry, who is wheelchair bound, had apartment complex flooding - so early Saturday morning she and the family left for Dallas. Water at that time made it hard for her to get into the van then to get the wheelchair on the lift but they made it - arrived safely at a hotel in Dallas and today, with water receded, returned home safely.

To avoid levy & dam breaches the Army Corp of Engineers & local water control personnel released water from 2 reservoirs and Lake Conroe. This caused & continues to cause many houses to flood but avoided an even bigger catastrophe had the dams or levees failed. Again, we are lucky to be above the reservoirs and not along the river where Lake Conroe flows so we were not impacted. These releases will continue as needed for the next couple of months to get the water down and be able to handle the normal Texas summer thunderstorms.

Finally got newspapers delivered about noon today, no mail delivery or garbage pickup yet. Definitely felt cut off from the world.

Please keep all the victims of Harvey in your prayers – it will be a long time before life will return to normal.

With gratitude for all our blessings,
Carol & Jan
