Parish Family

A special welcome to our summer guests at the Table of the Lord

Whether you drove across town or came from distant lands, we are delighted the Holy Spirit
drew you to Grandville for Mass.

REAL PEOPLE REAL PRESENCE

... a welcoming Roman Catholic family of God
empowered by the Holy Spirit to grow our relationship with Jesus Christ and with one another as we worship, pray, learn and serve.

Three Actions

1. Deny Yourself
2. Take Up Your Cross
3. Follow Jesus

Living in Mercy

Surely he doesn't mean it! I mean, hating my relatives to be a disciple! Really? In order to be a disciple today, Jesus says, give up what holds you back, carry your own cross, follow me and not someone else. To be a disciple today, Jesus says, will take a consuming dedication plus relentless mercy, love, and compassion. Jesus wants disciples. Jesus wants me.

- To what, to whom am I hanging on too tight?
- What is the cross I must pick up?

Prepare for next week: Read and reflect on the Twenty-Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time (beginning on pg. 366) in the "Living Liturgy" missal.

FR. CHRIS ROUECH
frchris@spxcatholic.org

such a stable life. Just think: my parents managed to purchase a cottage while running a farm and raising six kids aged 2, 5, 8, 13, 17 and 18. (I was the 13-year-old).

The cottage and a trailer full of snowmobiles were a sign that Bill and Sylvia enjoyed leisure. But every one of us had to work hard, too.

Parents who require their children to carry their share of the household duties are doing them a great favor. It makes me sad when I see kids lounging in the car while mom or dad fills the gas tank, shops for groceries, etc.

Labor Day is first of all a celebration of the great strides in equity accomplished by Labor unions. This is also a good day to treasure how hard work can be a gift.

EXPLORING THE WORD

Nobody's favorite gospel

by Alice Camille

It was meant to be the deal breaker, and it was. Hate your parents? Your siblings? Hate your spouse and children? Who can do this? Who can imagine Jesus would even want this?

Matthew quotes this teaching, softening the blow: "Whoever loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me" (10:37). To speak of higher loves is the kind of religion most of us can live with. It makes sense that Jesus demands our allegiance above all others—it makes sense, though many of us aren't ready to accept that requirement. Our families are precious to us. We build our lives around the ideal of our happiness together. We're rarely prepared to put any priority above that fundamental loyalty. Yet Jesus does ask it of us. Not just ask: He draws this precise line in the sand between disciples and fakers.

St. Luke chooses theatrical hyperbole in casting this teaching in terms of hate rather than higher love.

Considering the style of Semitic discourse back then (and now!), Luke's version is closer to what Jesus actually said. Turning your back on family is exactly what Jesus asks every disciple along the way to do. It's what Elijah required of the farmer Elisha when he threw the prophetic mantle around his shoulders. Say goodbye to your folks, burn the yoke, and roast the oxen. You're done here! Renunciation of the old life and a total embrace of the new is how conversion works. You can't plow a new furrow while looking back over your shoulder. If the old way has a hold on you, looking backward immobilizes you into a pillar of salt.

Both Testaments are on board with this teaching, and are equally dramatic about it. Abram and Sarai must leave home and family to gain a land of promise and propagate a nation. Moses abandons his obscure shepherd's life to become God's man in Egypt.

Throughout history, prophets are called and sent, despite the risk and the domestic cost. Did Amos wonder what was happening to his orchards back in Tekoa while he was denouncing Samaria? Walking away from the secure and familiar is what the freedom of the children of God is for. The word "familiar" includes, of course, family.

The word hate remains the deal breaker for many. Our world teems with hatred, and the media brings deeds of hate into our homes every hour.

The chemistry of hate burns in the chest, destroys its host, and spreads harm everywhere. We don't want to absorb that awful feeling. So forget emotions, and contemplate the real mandate, which is to renounce anything that stands in the way of fidelity to God's call in your life.

That's challenge enough!

Growing in Christ

Weekly Stewardship Report

STEWARSHIP THOUGHT: At the conclusion of today's gospel, we hear Jesus tell a "great crowd" that "...anyone of you who does not renounce all his possessions cannot be my disciple." A few of Jesus' immediate disciples, such as Peter, John and James, did just that: They responded to Jesus' call, renouncing everything to follow him. How do modern disciples of Jesus respond when confronted with this apparently harsh command of Jesus? Surely the renunciation of possessions need not mean literally giving all one's possessions away, does it? Questions we might ponder this week though: Do our possessions keep us from encountering Christ at Mass? Do they distract us from our parish family? Do our possessions interfere with our relationships? Do they make us insensitive to those less fortunate? from the September 2016 ICSC Catholic Stewardship e-bulletin

STEWARSHIP SPEAKER SERIES & NETWORKING EVENT

Brian Plachta will offer a presentation Discovering Our Gifts & Paying It Forward on Thursday, Sept. 15 from 5-6:30pm at Cathedral Square. We will look at discovering how using our gifts to make the world a better place also leads us to deeper happiness and wholeness.

Light refreshments will be served at this no-cost event. Please RSVP by calling (616)459-4508 or emailing jkatt@dioceseofgrandrapids.org.

LABOR DAY REFLECTIONS

As the United States observes Labor Day, these quotes from the Catechism of the Catholic Church warrant review. Click here or Google "work is for man, not man for work" for more.

ECONOMIC ACTIVITY AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

→ The development of economic activity and growth in production are meant to provide for the needs of human beings. Economic life is not meant solely to multiply goods produced and increase profit or power; it is ordered first of all to the service of persons, of the whole man, and of the entire human community.... [2426]

→ Human work proceeds directly from persons created in the image of God and called to prolong the work of creation by subduing the earth, both with and for one another... Work honors the Creator's gifts and the talents received from him. It can also be redemptive. By enduring the hardship of work in union with Jesus, the carpenter of Nazareth and the one crucified on Calvary, man collaborates in a certain fashion with the Son of God in his redemptive work. He shows himself to be a disciple of Christ by carrying the cross, daily, in the work he is called to accomplish. Work can be a means of sanctification and a way of animating earthly realities with the Spirit of Christ. [2427]

→ In work, the person exercises and fulfills in part the potential inscribed in his nature. The primordial value of labor stems from man himself, its author and its beneficiary. Work is for man, not man for work. Everyone should be able to draw from work the means of providing for his life and that of his family, and of serving the human community. [2428]

→ Those responsible for business enterprises are responsible to society for the economic and ecological effects of their operations. They have an obligation to consider the good of persons and not only the increase of profits. Profits are necessary, however. They make possible the investments that ensure the future of a business and they guarantee employment. [2432]
