

Centre for Effective Practice's Academic Detailing Basic Training Workshop

The Centre for Effective Practice (CEP) is hosting a training workshop on academic detailing for individuals interested in developing the basic skills of delivering one-on-one visits with providers on evidence-informed, clinical decision-making. CEP is looking for two family physicians interested in participating in moderated conversation about the realities of primary care practice, to assist in the workshop participants' learning. Loren Regier will serve as moderator for this conversation. Loren is the Clinical Service Director for CEP's primary care academic detailing service. The workshop facilitators and participants come from across Canada.

When: February 1, 2018 1:15-2:15pm, with the option to join us for lunch beforehand at 12:45pm

Where: Best Western Premier Toronto Airport Carlingview Hotel (Windsor Room), 135 Carlingview Drive, Toronto, ON M9W 5E7

Description: Experienced primary care physicians are needed for participating in moderated conversation about the realities of primary care practice, for the sake of workshop participants' learning. No preparation is required on their behalf, simply a willingness to honestly reflect their experience of practice in front of the workshop participants.

Honorarium: $750 (based on $1,500 per diem daily rate)
Reimbursement for travel/parking will also be provided.

If you are interested or have any questions, please email
victoria.burton@effectivepractice.org or loren.regier@effectivepractice.org