As we begin the New Year we want to Thank all those who have by deed or donation, by word-of mouth or by their own seam dedicated to James Stewart alive and well here in his hometown of Indiana, Pennsylvania. We had a busy and positive year in 2017, celebrating the 70th anniversary of the release of "It's a Wonderful Life" with our own special exhibition dedicated to the film. We were pleased to be able to provide a loan of museum materials to the new "It's a Wonderful Life" Museum in Seneca Falls, NY—the reputed location used by Capra for the film. We look forward to a long association with this new museum and thank them for sharing the story of a wonderful life.

Just last month the Museum was setting for the start of the Indiana Quota Club's Holiday House Tour. Our appreciation and gratitude to the club for choosing the museum for this event. We always welcome local civic and service organizations to utilize our facility. We have come to learn this is a great way to have some local folks who have never visited be surprised by the great and fun resource their community has in the Jimmy Stewart Museum.

"Always Remember, Be Nice to People"

Before the children of Jimmy Stewart left home and went off to college, their father gave them a short piece of advice on how to get by in the world. He said, "Always remember, be nice to people."

The DVD produced by the The James M. Stewart Museum Foundation is a tribute to a man who led by example, not only to become one of the greatest film stars of all time, but also to create a legacy of humanitarianism, courage, friendship, principles and a following that has endured through time.
