

June 11 – 12, 2018

Opening Panel Workforce Intermediaries

Join us and our panel of experts – drawn from across the province – for an informative and engaging discussion regarding the role of Local Employment Planning Councils.

There are eight pilot projects for Local Employment Planning Councils (LEPCs) two in each Ontario Region – as part of the provincial response to the Building a Workforce of Tomorrow, A Shared Responsibility report. These LEPCs focus on workforce planning and development in their area improve the ability of communities to ensure that they have the workforce talent needed to sustain and grow their economy. The eight pilots serve as workforce intermediaries in their area. The LEPCs benefit individuals, employers, and the local community. Four LEPC Executive Directors will discuss their evolving community role, the LEPC projects, recently released community labour market plans and the benefits of workforce intermediaries.

Moderator

Heather McMillan, Executive Director, Durham Workforce Authority, President, Onestep

Panel Members are:

Deb Mountenay, Executive Director, Elgin Middlesex Oxford Workforce Planning and Development Board

Ingrid Argyle, Program Manager, Ottawa Employment Hub

Madge Richardson, Executive Director, North Superior Workforce Planning Board

Julie Joncas, Executive Director, Far North East Training Board

Shalini Da Cunha, Executive Director, Peel Halton Workforce Planning Board