

About Sara Sobey

Sara Sobey, who lives in St. Marys, learned to sing long before she could speak. Her autism has not held her back from her love of singing, and she has performed publicly since she was 9. She is now 28.

She loves the stage and she loves to sing with her mother, who is a singer and songwriter, in a duo dubbed KiSara. They have performed throughout Ontario and Canada, as well as on television, talent shows, at conferences, and major stadiums singing the national anthems before games.

Music has become a bridge for her to share her possibilities, which include a cross-Canada tour, recording and opportunities to be a role model. “Possibilities” is her signature song and “Over the Rainbow” is a crowd favourite that she has sung often.
