Anglican Bishop J. C. Ryle of Liverpool is an interesting character to say the least. In his day, heresies abounded, the Anglican church was getting too far away from the Bible, and leaning towards Catholicism. Popular holiness teachers—such as William Edwin Boardman, Robert Pearsall Smith, and his wife, Hanna Whitall Smith—urged Christians to embrace a superior form of spiritual life that included a second conversion experience, full salvation, and deliverance from all known sin in this life [Ben Rogers, The Gospel Coalition]. Bishop Ryle was a faithful, and prolific writer of pamphlets, and tracts addressing the ills and evils of his day always from a solid Biblical foundation. His Expository Thoughts on the Four gospels is available as a e-book; the print volumes are available in the New Testament section [226.3 RYL]

What I like best about Ryle is his research— He gives a balanced and readable view on controversial passages culling from many, many commentators ancient and modern from his day, and gives you the most common-sense and Biblical interpretation. If you would like a mini-biography and a bibliography of his works, please see : Warren Wiersbe's , 50 People Every Christian Should know [BC WIE]

Throughout his career, Ravi Zacharias has faced some of the most difficult questions ever asked about the Christian faith. The most troublesome question of all, however, came from a Hindu friend. “If this conversion is truly supernatural,” he asked, “why is it not more evident in the lives of so many Christians that I know?” Beyond Opinion is Dr. Zacharias’s response [Goodreads]

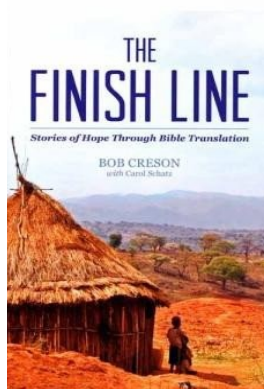

The delightful and family friendly film on the early days of Dolly Parton, and a special coat made by her mother at a very low point in her life.

How does a busy person squeeze in reading? Simple answer, never go anywhere you are going to wait without something to read. Doctor's offices, auto repair places, anywhere you wait, you can read. Before bed is another go to time. Try reading in the car on a trip, and out loud to your children. You can read on your smart phone using Kindle app or listen to an audio book in the car. Reading outside of the news is important. I'm sure you have your own tips— Let us know in the library and we'll make a list for people to share. Write a sentence or two, and your name, and we'll share the results.

The Torch lighters Dvd series from the Christian History Institute and the Voice of the Martyrs brings to life Christian missionaries, and heroes of the faith from William Booth and Amy Carmichael to Samuel Morris, Augustine and William Tyndale. Recommended for family viewing, these 30 minute DVD's will entertain adults as well as children 8-12. I found myself wanting to know more about each one.

The Finish Line is about a family that leaves their home in Southern California and follows God's call to the other side of the world. It's about a Tennessean man who walks a thousand miles to make sure his people group gets a Bible they can understand. It's about HIV and AIDS victims in Uganda who never knew hope until they heard Scripture translated in their language.
