

LUMBER HELPING LUMBER:2018

Fire Relief Campaign, again this year

The loss of a home to a fire is one of the most horrible life-altering events that can happen to a person or family. As we saw in 2017 with the massive fires, the rebuilding of homes, business and lives is a long process. Again this year we are aware of individuals and families associated with the lumber & building materials industry who have had catastrophic losses in these latest fires in California.

The West Coast Lumber & Building Material Association is determined to assist where it can. The WCLBMA has formed a short-term pass-through process to get direct financial aid to those with immediate needs.

Food, temporary housing, basic necessities of life - anything to take some pressure off in this time of need. That's what the funds will be used for.

We're keeping it simple. We're working with the management of our lumber and building materials members to determine which of their employees need extra help now.

The various public and private relief agencies are doing great things in providing what they do to help people rebuild their lives. Also, the various lumber and building materials companies are working on their own to assist their employees. But a little extra is needed for many of those who suffered losses. That's why WCLMBA is helping coordinate this effort.

If you as an individual or as a company want to help, please send a credit card payment or check payable to WCLBMA and mark on it "LUMBER HELPING LUMBER." Please note that because of the manner in which this special campaign is conducted, contributions are not tax-deductible. WCLBMA will pass on funds to those in need of direct financial help. How large is the need? From early reports it appears that somewhere more than 20 individuals or families of lumber-affiliated people lost homes or suffered significant damage. That's who we will direct the help to from within the industry. If you are aware of someone in the lumber industry with a loss, please get the information to WCLBMA so we can determine if we can help.
