Many individuals require caregiver assistance with lifting, moving and handling (e.g. being turned during the night, being lifted in and out of bed, transferring from a seat to a wheelchair or from a wheelchair to a toilet, and so on). The sheer volume of these activities can lead to fatigue, muscle strain and injury.

This training will demonstrate safe handling and movement, maintaining correct body mechanics and posture, identify and prevent environmental risk factors, discuss manual and powered lifts and slings, and the use of positioning equipment.
