One of the last things that most parents want to hear is that their child has a disability and requires special education services. As difficult as it may seem, try not to feel panicked. Although there is a lot to learn you can begin with a basic understanding of the process and continue to learn as you go.

This presentation will give you a good starting point from which to begin your journey. Here you will find information about identification, assessments, laws, interventions and specialized academic support and services. Start slowly. As you begin to understand the process, you will feel more comfortable attending meetings and advocating for your child.
