

The Patient to Patient Experience Symposium Nov 18th – 20th Terranea Resort

The National Institute of Health estimates almost 3 times more patients living with autoimmune conditions, as compared to cancer patients (23.5 vs. 9 million). Focusing on annual direct health care costs, autoimmune disorders are twice as much as cancer ($100 vs. $57 billion) costs.

The symposium on Nov 18th – 20th @ the Terranea resort, will provide current updates on management and treatment protocols on Rheumatic autoimmune conditions. A public health framework that focuses on protecting health, preventing things from getting worse and promoting positive health habits will be the focus.

As a public health practitioner, a patient and a public health clinician, I have experienced the benefits of an effective collaborative approach in managing Scleroderma, Fibromyalgia and Celiac. This is the goal for the providers. Continuing Medical Education Units will be offered.
