Magical Realism OF CARTAGENA

The Association of Junior Leagues International presents the Magical Realism of Cartagena, a five-day tour of colonial Cartagena exclusively designed for members of the Next Chapter and all League Sustainers. In these five days, we explore the rich history of Cartagena and feel the rhythms of the colonial city. Take a step away from the real to embrace the magical as we walk through centuries of history, taste deliciously re-imagined Colombian cuisine, explore traditional Cumbia music, meander through lush mangroves, and much more. With a penchant for authenticity, our itinerary cultivates a more nuanced understanding of contemporary Colombian life while supporting sustainable, community-driven tourism. Our base will be the Hotel Sofitel Legend Santa Clara, a luxuriously renovated convent that dates back to 1621 and is consistently listed among the most elite hotels in the world. We invite you to step back in time and enjoy one of the most magical cities in the world with fellow Junior League Sustainers.

CARTAGENA'S HOTEL SOFTEL LEGEND SANTA CLARA

In Cartagena, Sofitel revived a convent whose story dates to 1621. Travel back in time in this imposing colonial building. Discover the secrets of a hotel where every detail has its own story to tell. This historic building is shrouded in mystery dating to when it was the Cloister of the Poor Clare Sisters. It still maintains different historical elements: crypts, wells, confessionals, paintings, doors, hidden windows and ceramic objects. The magnificent rooms pay tribute to the best of Colombian culture. This emblematic space at the hotel received the endorsement of Colombian artist Fernando Botero. His daughter, Lina Botero, was tasked with its interior design. With its transformation into an upscale hotel in 1995, Sofitel gave new life to the Convent of Saint Clare of Assisi, built in the 17th century. Its path toward excellence has seen it considered one of the most elite amongst the best hotels in the world.

The Colorful History of Colombia

This morning, we'll join our guide to embark on a historical tour of the city. We'll hear fascinating pirate stories and learn about Cartagena's struggle to independence as we explore important sites and uniquely beautiful plazas. From the Plaza of San Diego, located between the School of Fine Arts and the building that was once the famous Convent of Santa Clara, we'll stroll through the park of Fernandez de Madrid - known as "the little park of the Evangelists" in masterful author, Gabriel García Márquez's, Love in the Time of Cholera. We'll visit the Plaza of Bolívar - with the peaceful murmur of its four fountains and the softly blown fronds of its towering palms. Here we can see traditional dances being performed by free-spirited young people in full regalia before continuing the walk and ending in the Plaza of the Church of Santo Domingo. Together, we'll enjoy a delicious lunch. In the afternoon, we will have the option of free time or a trip to the Emerald Museum to explore Colombia's rich emerald industry. (B,L)

Friday, Feb. 9, 2018 - La Boquilla Sustainable Colombia: Music & Mangroves

In the morning, we're bound for La Boquilla, an old fishing village twenty minutes north of Cartagena. As Colombia develops, La Boquilla's community leaders are pioneering sustainable tourism. All of our activities today not only help us better understand authentic Colombian culture but also directly help local community members preserve their way of life. We will visit a community music centre for children, learn about Colombia's folk music tradition and take part in a drumming and Cumbia dancing workshop. Get acquainted with Give to Columbia®'s Learning for Life Program, a high impact social project for young adults, where for a short time we will be a part of an instrumental group providing skills and capacities to obtain employment and lead participants to become a significant contributing force in the development of their very own communities.

Next we board a canoe for a tour of the mangroves supporting true La Boquilla ecotourism. Our guides are comprised 100% of natives from the La Boquilla community, working for the benefit of the community and the mangrove ecosystem of the marsh known as Cienaga de Juan Polo. We will glide through dense ancient growth of mangroves that meander for a time before opening onto the placid expanses of lake populated by flocks of egrets and pelicans. We will have lunch right on the beach in La Boquilla, listening to the waves gently lap the shore, with some of the freshest fish and most refreshing drinks, followed by an obligatory siesta! As we return to the magical walled city of Cartagena, we will have the afternoon and evening free to relax and wander around the candle-lit streets. (B,L)

Street Art & Spanish Fortresses

In the morning we will visit Cartagena's stylish neighbourhood of Getsemani, to witness the city's incredible street art. From there, we'll explore the San Felipe, arguably the greatest fortress built by the Spanish in any of their colonies. Lunch is on our own and, in the afternoon, we can either enjoy a free afternoon or opt to visit a chocolate museum to learn more about Colombia's rich cocoa industry and how chocolate is made into its many forms.

In the evening, we'll be whisked away by horse drawn carriage to our final reception and dinner together in what can only be described as a magical colonial home in the city's historic center.

Sunday, Feb. 11, 2018

Return Home

Morning at leisure to meander through the cobblestone streets of the Old City and enjoy the balmy tropical breezes of this beautiful Caribbean treasure.

On our final day, we have the morning free as we arrange afternoon transfers to the airport for the return home. ✈️
