

Terry Olson's self-imposed title at the Office of Arts & Cultural for Orange County is "Chief Arts Instigator".

It is a position he has held since 2001 when he was hired to create the office. From the first year's funding of $500,000 to the current year's funding of nearly $5 million, Olson has overseen several investment programs for the arts, the development of a public art program, the development of an arts education program and has seen the arts community grow artistically, financially and in its audience reach and diversity.
