President's Message

Do you know how to ride a bike? Did you ever have to pick yourself up, dust off your bruised and bloodied knees and try again? I still have gravel in my knees from many a crash in my youth. But, that gravel is also a badge of honor! It is proof that I didn't give up. The effort I made to learn and improve paid off! And, now that I have the skill to ride, I will never forget, no matter how long it's been since I got on a bike.

Learning to ride a bike is a good metaphor for my art pursuits. Being an artist requires tenacity. It sometimes even requires my blood, sweat, and tears (literally)! But, through the years and the tears, I have learned not to take rejection as personally, and I have persevered.

In 2003, when I joined UWS and started to seriously pursue painting, I had no idea how competitive the art world was! I made slides of all my artwork. I entered all the shows UWS offered (as well as several others across the country). I applied to art festivals. I sent out envelope after envelope of slides full of my artwork. In return, I received envelope after envelope of rejection letters. It took me four years to gain acceptance to my first UWS exhibition. It took me fourteen years to achieve UWS Signature Membership!

Self-doubt and self-criticism are common for artists. Rejection letters can either spur us to continue...or to give up. Some artists are so afraid of rejection that they are afraid to try. Our egos are fragile! But what will you achieve if you don't try?

I encourage you to try! Wayne Gretzky (one of the greatest hockey players of all time) famously said, "You miss 100% of the shots you don't take." It's true in hockey, it's true in life, and it's true in art.

A Patchwork Fall
by Jennifer Love

Sure, it still stings when I'm not accepted to an exhibition or a festival or a gallery (and it happens OFTEN!). When it happens, I take a minute to bandage my bruised ego, then I go back to my studio and I keep trying. Like riding a bike, my balance gets better, my skills improve with practice, and I can go faster and farther every time!

2017-2018 UWS Mini Workshops

All mini workshops will be 9am-4pm at SUP Building. 3301 E. 2920 S. (Louise Ave) SLC, UT (unless otherwise specified)

•Colleen Reynolds "Painting Pets with Personality" September 22-23, 2017. In this workshop, put all your worries aside and have some fun learning how to capture the personalities of our favorite furry friends. We will paint at least one dog, one cat and one horse. Our focus will be on the face of the respective animals.

•Robert Barrett watercolor workshop November 3-4, 2017

•Ian Ramsay watercolor workshop January 26-27, 2018

•Kristi Grussendorf watercolor workshop March 16-17, 2018

Robert Burrige (sponsored by UWS-CVC), Sep 11-15, 2017. UWS-CVC welcomes Robert Burrige to Logan, UT for a week-long workshop. "Loosen Up with Aquamedia Painting." Designed for the professional painter who is stuck in a style as well as for the novice who wants to conquer their fear of painting. Starting each day with multiple, small "warm-up painting exercises" and up to larger-format paintings, Burrige's positive approach towards the act of painting will inspire you to loosen up, have fun again and paint more! Contact Laura Hawley for information. Laura.Hawley@gmail.com

Keiko Tanabe, Oct 2-6, 2017. UWS welcomes Keiko Tanabe to Salt Lake City for our Fall 2017 Workshop. Keiko will also jury and judge our 2017 Fall Member Exhibition.

Jeannie McGuire, May 4-5, 2018 in Logan, UT. May 7-11, 2018 in Salt Lake City, UT. UWS and UWS-CVC welcome Jeannie McGuire to Utah for two workshops in the Spring of 2018. "An intuitive approach to character development of faces and figures." Jeannie will also jury and judge our UWS 2018 Spring Open Exhibition.

Frank Eber AWS, NWS, TWSA, Oct 1-5, 2018 "How to Paint Atmospheric Watercolors" with Frank Eber. Frank will be our UWS Fall 2018 workshop instructor and will jury the UWS 2018 Fall Member Exhibition. This workshop will be a mix of plein air and studio. The watercolor medium lends itself to capturing mood and atmosphere, Frank's expertise.

Betsy Dillard Stroud, AWS D.F., NWS May 6-10, 2019. UWS welcomes Betsy Dillard Stroud to Salt Lake City for a "Mixed Magic" workshop with acrylic and watercolor.

Frank Francese, NWS, TWSA-Master, Sep 30 – Oct 4, 2019. UWS welcomes Frank Francese for a 5 day workshop of nature scenes, country scenes, city scenes, beach scenes, and storms & moods.

President's Message

In Paris, during the Impressionist period, artists met in cafés on the side of the streets. They drank beer and wine, sipped coffee and talked. They discussed personal ideas about art, life, love, philosophy, and politics. They would laugh and enjoy each other's company, encouraged and supported each other, and at times argued and disagreed. The discussion in these meetings would help an artist clarify his emerging artistic ideas. Discouragements over artist's difficulties were overcome by a compatriot's encouragement to continue.

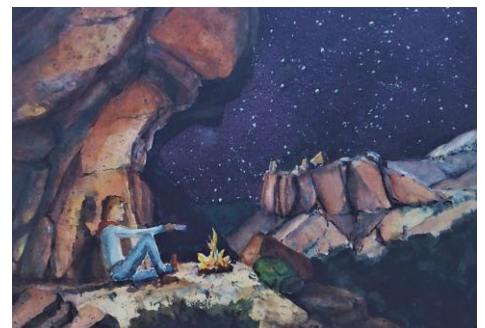

French Impressionists such as Manet, Renoir and Degas met in cafés and created a movement that changed the course of art. The list of other movements is endless— realism, romanticism, cubism, pointillism, etc.— and each art movement is similar in that each is a collection of artists working together with a common vision.

We are called a Watercolor Society because we come together as a group of artists, doing the same things these past artists have done. We talk, laugh, discuss the reason why we do something, how we do it, and share our passion in doing it. It helps us to grow by being together. Alas, we will not meet in a Paris cafe'. We will meet, but it will be in our mountain valley home called Cache Valley. Instead of the buildings along a Paris street, we have the Wellsville and Bear River Range around us.

In September, we will again start to have monthly meetings as a society of watercolor painters. In these meetings, we will work on creating a vision of what watercolor is for each of us and for all of us. I hope you will join us.

Plein Air Painting with Brienne

RECAP

On the first day artists met at the covered pavilion in King Nature Park, up towards Green Canyon. Brienne shared a practice she had learned from Robert Wade of painting multiple small timed plein air studies. Brienne demonstrated first by dividing her half sheet with masking tape into three smaller formats. Stressing value over color and painting quickly, Brienne experimented with three different possible designs. The workshop students followed suit. Brienne encouraged everyone to push themselves to make this a weekly practice, taking an hour and a half each week, focusing on the time instead of “finishing.” During the afternoon, everyone chose a favorite of the smaller paintings to redo on a larger sheet of paper. Having already worked out many of the design problems, artists were able to paint with more conviction and confidence.

Day two was spent at the home and property of Lucy and Cary Watkins. Artists had a variety of subject matter to choose from...water, barns, trees, flowers, structures, vistas, animals, people... Thanks to the Watkins for their continued support of the arts! This time Brienne began with a small value sketch with markers followed by a preliminary sketch painted with neutral tint only. Eliminating the color helped the students focus on value. Sherrill Gordon (and her husband!) kept artists well fed and hydrated, and Brienne inspired us to keep painting plein air.

The 56th International Sketch Crawl took place, as the title implies, worldwide on July 29. The state of Utah was represented by a hardy group of sketchers — all members of the Utah Watercolor Society/Cache Valley Chapter! A photo of some of the group is included above. (We also had a guest painter from the UWS in SLC.) It was a great day of sketching at the local Gardeners' Market and then on downtown Main Street (from the shady Tabernacle lawn), followed by helpful critiques. New painters are always welcome. It's free and fun.
