Market Assessment & Marketing for Government Contracting

Would you like to find business opportunities with federal, state, and local agencies?

This free class will provide training on how to use government websites to find out which agencies are buying your products or services. With this information, you will be able to refine your opportunity searches and marketing approaches.

Class Objectives:

- Learn how to assess potential government markets for your business
- Learn how to use websites to see historical federal spending
- Use Federal Business Opportunities to see historical spending and look for current opportunities
- Use the Oregon Procurement Information Network (ORPIN) to see historical spending and look for current opportunities
- Identify subcontracting opportunities
