This newsletter

This is a monthly newsletter of the ESU Andrew Romay New Immigrant Center to help you keep up with ARNIC happenings and stay connected to our community. Happy reading!

What is ARNIC?

ARNIC helps newly arrived immigrants, refugees, and asylum-seekers practice English in pairs with fluent English speakers and in group ESL classes. ARNIC also offers workshops, training sessions, and cultural events to provide new Americans with information and hands-on experience with the culture, society, services and everyday life of New York.

Immigrant Stories Platform

We are launching a new website where we will collect immigrant stories. Every human, every New Yorker, every new American has a story about New York or how they came to New York. On this website, you can experience some of these stories for yourself.

Each story and video is written or filmed from the perspective of one member of the English-Speaking Union Andrew Romay New Immigrant Center. Stories, essays, and poems were created in our special English as a Second Language classes: Writing Skills class, taught by Angela Wilkins, and English Through Printed Media, taught by Robert Speziale.

All video submissions were filmed, edited, and produced by ARNIC members who have experience in documentary filmmaking. Our volunteer, a freelance videographer, Scott Luxor provided support for all video projects.

See the teaser campaign on our social media channels, Twitter, Facebook and Instagram. Please Like and Follow us and Share with friends. Email us your story and a photo too if you want to be featured on this platform!

Since I was a child I had been saying that there was a free and amazing country called America where all dreams come true. Some people were proud of being there, and the rest were eager to go there. I think that's what we call the American dream.
