STUDENT-STAFF SAFETY & SECURITY

Presented by Chief Christopher Wagner, Denville Police Department

Steven A. Forte, Superintendent of Schools, Denville Board of Education

This presentation will discuss the importance of building a positive, mutually understanding relationship between the school district and police department executives. From that positive relationship, a municipality can then effectively address all of the items listed on the wheel that relate to school security. Two of our most important points will be that the police and schools have to begin to work together right now, if they haven't already, and begin to check off priorities on their list of school security items. Secondly, there is no "Magic Pill" for school security; districts and police departments must evaluate everything to determine which steps are most important in their security plans.

THE SCHOOL-POLICE PARTNERSHIP

Presented by Dr. John More, JD,

President and CEO of Response Law, LLC

A succinct, practical legal roadmap for police chiefs that breaks down the relationship among school administrators, school security, and police officers, including school resource officers and Class III officers in New Jersey. The discussion covers the distinctions between New Jersey civil law and criminal law as to who's in charge, when, and why. Scenario-based subject matter areas include investigations, questioning and interrogation of students, all areas of search and seizure, use of force, and the limited use of body-worn cameras within the school environment.

LESSONS LEARNED: HOW POLICE DEPARTMENTS CAN EMPOWER STUDENTS AND STAFF TO RECOGNIZE AND REPORT POTENTIAL THREATS TO LAW ENFORCEMENT

Presented by Dr. John More, JD,

President and CEO of Response Law, LLC

This engaging and interactive session provides attendees with a coherent, integrated daily operations template for capturing and leveraging critical information long before the act of violence occurs. The discussion centers on providing school staff and students with the competence and confidence to recognize suspicious communication, activity, and behavior, including all postings on social media platforms, that can be immediately shared with law enforcement. This training encompasses lessons learned from the Parkland, Florida, school shooting and the recently thwarted active shooter attempts in Vermont and New Jersey.
