

Help Other Women Suffering from SUI Today

The American Urogynecologic Society (AUGS), a nonprofit organization advancing research and education in female pelvic floor disorders, would like your participation in a national survey to better understand women's experiences with stress urinary incontinence (SUI).

AUGS is interested in learning more about your experience with SUI, treatment, and life after the treatment you selected. Your insight will help us raise awareness and better inform other patients seeking information about SUI treatment options.

The brief survey will take approximately 5-10 minutes to complete. Please complete the survey by September 13.

The survey can be completed online in accessing the link below:

www.augs.org/SUI

Thank you for your time and participation.

Help Other Women Suffering from SUI Today

The American Urogynecologic Society (AUGS), a nonprofit organization advancing research and education in female pelvic disorders, would like your participation in a national survey to better understand women's experiences with stress urinary incontinence (SUI).

AUGS is interested in learning more about your experience with SUI, treatment, and life after the treatment you selected. Your insight will help us raise awareness and better inform other patients seeking information about SUI treatment options.

The brief survey will take approximately 5-10 minutes to complete. Please complete the survey by September 13.

The survey can be completed online in accessing the link below:

www.augs.org/SUI

Thank you for your time and participation.

Help Other Women Suffering from SUI Today

The American Urogynecologic Society (AUGS), a nonprofit organization advancing research and education in female pelvic disorders, would like your participation in a national survey to better understand women's experiences with stress urinary incontinence (SUI).

AUGS is interested in learning more about your experience with SUI, treatment, and life after the treatment you selected. Your insight will help us raise awareness and better inform other patients seeking information about SUI treatment options.

The brief survey will take approximately 5-10 minutes to complete. Please complete the survey by September 13.

The survey can be completed online in accessing the link below:

www.augs.org/SUI

Thank you for your time and participation.

Help Other Women Suffering from SUI Today

The American Urogynecologic Society (AUGS), a nonprofit organization advancing research and education in female pelvic disorders, would like your participation in a national survey to better understand women's experiences with stress urinary incontinence (SUI).

AUGS is interested in learning more about your experience with SUI, treatment, and life after the treatment you selected. Your insight will help us raise awareness and better inform other patients seeking information about SUI treatment options.

The brief survey will take approximately 5-10 minutes to complete. Please complete the survey by September 13.

The survey can be completed online in accessing the link below:

www.augs.org/SUI

Thank you for your time and participation.