Growing in Grace

We've all seen the sign, "Be patient with me – God isn't through with me yet." It's funny, to be sure. But it can also be used as a bit of an excuse. We use it to mean, "Please overlook my sinful ways because I'm still mortal!" And then, because of it, we are free to sin. We might not be that crass, but that is where the old man, the sinful nature, takes us from time to time. It is such a problem that the Holy Spirit took time to place warnings against such a practice: Romans 6:1; I Corinthians 15:34; and Hebrews 10:26-27 et al.

Lately, we have been busy with training. Pastor Moss and I, both in Bawku (below) and in Bunkpurugu (above), have been helping the leaders of the local church to understand the Scriptures and our Lutheran Confessions more and more. That is fitting and makes perfect sense. Men who are leading these churches should, just like parish pastors in the USA, be constantly growing in their understanding of the Word and in faith.

But such a practice is not an end to itself. It is not enough for the members of a congregation to say, "Well, I don't know the Scriptures or the Catechism that well, but I have a pastor that does!" Rather, we should receive these men, these pastors, as people through whom God is blessing us, giving us growth in the faith. St. Peter ends his second epistle with these words: "But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be the glory both now and to the day of eternity. Amen." (II Peter 3:18)

How is God glorified? We usually think of hymns both mortal and angelic as the means by which God is glorified. Perhaps we imagine full congregations and nicely-robed choirs lifting their voices in praise of the Triune God. True enough. But God is also glorified when we grow in God's Word. "You have exalted above all things your name and Your word." (Psalm 138:2) The greatest hymn we can sing, therefore, is the one that meditates on God's name and on His word!

So Peter's exhortation – "grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ" – is a call for the whole Church, not merely its leaders, to embrace the blessed and blessing task of taking the words of God into our hands and letting its words have their way with us and not the other way around. To be sure, it is a humbling task. It means that we say, "God, work on me!" It means that we have to learn to hate that which the Lord hates and to love what the Lord loves. It means that we live as those who are already dead, marching with our Lord and with His cross.

As Luther said, "God does not save people who are only fictitious sinners. Be a sinner and sin boldly, but believe and rejoice in Christ even more boldly."

A Time of Rejoicing!

When we travel near the border of Togo, we often go over to meet with our LCMS counterparts there – a time of fellowship, sharing in frustrations and joys, and some great food. This year we were able to be there for the opening of the academic year of the confessional Lutheran seminary for Francophone Africa in Dapaong. It was great to hear their singing of the liturgy in French and to hear the African influences. We thank God for our co-workers there: Jacob Gaugert, Valerie Stonebreaker, and Micah and Robin Wildauer (and family). And we thank God for the new students and their families (above), some of whom have traveled far to grow in the grace of God’s word there. Blessings!

We are so grateful that in the midst of all our Stateside travels we will have significant time with each of our children – Joshua and his bride, Sarah, in Thorton, CO; Gretchen and her fiancée, Tom, and Isaiah in Jacksonville, FL; and Jonathan and his new lady friend, the US Air Force, in Biloxi, MS. We can’t make it everywhere, but if you are nearby, please come and see us. Grow in God’s grace! Grow as His witnesses! And may Christ be glorified in each of us!

We commend you and yours to Christ Jesus, our Lord,
