THE HERTEL REPORT

URAC ACCREDITS PCCN

The only accreditation of its kind, URAC's Clinical Integration accreditation gives healthcare networks the support to become clinically integrated and avoid antitrust issues. Phoenix Children's Care Network (PCCN) was the first pediatric network in the U.S. accredited for clinical integration by URAC. About a year and a half in the making, the accreditation process required a full-time lead and a team of 10 dedicating a minimum of 20 percent of monthly work hours to the project. "The URAC accreditation recognizes that the more than 1,000 PCCN health care providers in the metropolitan area are committed to supporting and providing the best care for the kids. This accreditation speaks to our continued commitment to being the best!" Casey Osborne Vice President Phoenix Children's Care Network.
