

Super Citizen Program Comes to KDS Elementary

Just imagine a generation of students who excel in teach-to-test subjects but have little knowledge of civics, character, financial responsibility and career readiness. Will math and science alone continue our nation's progress? Our students deserve to learn these guiding lessons – as well as the great American story that gives context to their important roles in our country's future. We must teach them that they hold titles more important than “engineer,” “scientist,” even “president”... That title is citizen.

Along with other Marshall County students, KDS Elementary schoolers in 2nd and 3rd grades recently attended a kick-off of the Liberty Legacy Super Citizen Program. The Super Citizen Program makes learning history, civics, character, financial literacy and career readiness exciting. These immersive learning experiences teach students to become responsible, outstanding citizens. The program also empowers educators to teach these lessons alongside required subjects; producing outstanding young citizens who are truly life and career-ready.

Following the kick-off, teachers were provided with instructional materials to administer ten weekly lessons that continue the concepts of this program. Through grants and donations, Liberty Learning Foundation provided these free tool kits to teachers and puts on powerful performances that increase understanding and retention of concepts.

In one part of the program, Lady Liberty asked the students close their eyes to picture moving to America from another country in search of freedom.
