Culinary Recruiting Pilot Morocco

SUMMARY

In partnership with go2HR and the BCHA, we are excited to offer a pilot project for properties that require culinary talent but do not meet our minimum hire requirement of 5 for on-line or 15 for an in-person trip. After completing a successful recruiting trip to Morocco in September for two clients, we are happy to extend this project in an accessible way.

The Moroccan cooks are trained in the classic French style and currently work as Sous Chefs, CDP's and line cooks.

HOW IT WORKS

CRI will fly Dennis Green (Director, Industry Training, go2HR) on our next recruitment trip to Morocco to interview on your behalf. go2HR is covering the cost of his salary for this trip. Dennis has more than 20 years' experience as a Red Seal chef and left his position as Executive Chef at Bishop's Restaurant in Vancouver in 2007 to join go2HR. Dennis was inducted into the BC Restaurant Hall of Fame in 2015 in recognition of his contribution to the cook apprenticeship training system in BC.

CRI will screen applicants and arrange for Dennis to meet candidates on your behalf. During his trip you will be given a time slot to review the applicants that Dennis has selected as your candidates. CRI will then arrange a short Skype conversation for you and the candidate, to approve their hire.

NEXT STEPS

This pilot-project is designed to assist the properties looking for between 1 and 4 cooks with a cost of $2,000 per cook, or $588 amortized over a 4 year period, which includes Government compliance fees.

If this sounds like it could work for your organization please email Joel Chevalier at Joel@CulinaryRI.com
Please email no later than January 4th, 2019, for our February Interviews taking place in Morocco.
