

Lindsey Brace Martinez
Founder and President, StarPoint Advisors, LLC

Lindsey works as a strategic partner to Board leaders, C-level and senior investment executives who want to build, improve and scale best-in-class organizations and strategies that can deliver sustainable long-term value to institutional investors. She has specific expertise in governance and investment oversight, asset allocation, private equity and natural resource investing.

Lindsey has over 25+ years of investment, management and client experience and has held multiple leadership positions in business development, client management and strategy. Prior to founding StarPoint Advisors, Lindsey served in several key Executive roles at Cambridge Associates, as a management consultant at Booz, Allen and a portfolio manager at the Hancock Timber Resource Group.

Lindsey is actively involved with both corporate and non-profit institutions that operate at the intersection of business, investing and the environment. She serves on the Board at UK-listed Impax Asset Management Group and is a Trustee at Pax World Funds Series Trust I, a group of 10 funds that focus on sustainable investing. She is Chairman of the Board of Novatus Energy, LLC, a private renewable energy company, and a Director at the Seven Islands Land Management Company, a certified sustainable forestland resource and management company. She is an Investment sub-Committee member at the National Geographic Society and on the Advisory Board for the Yale Center of Business and the Environment.
