

F40 MADNESS!!!

IN HO SCALE EXCLUSIVELY FROM

Amtrak NPCU "Cabbage"

Amtrak began to rebuild redundant F40PH locomotives into Non-Powered Control Units (NPCUs) in the 1990s. They allow "push-pull" service and eliminate the need to turn a train at terminals. They feature a locomotive cab and baggage section, hence the nickname "cabbage." They are still in service today all over the United States.

The Rapido Amtrak NPCU is not just our F40 model with a few bells and whistles added. We have tooled up a completely new body based on a common Phase 1 NPCU design. It features operating ditch lights, accurate enlarged marker lights, supplementary air reservoirs, K5LA horn, and other accurate NPCU details.

Order deadline September 26th, 2016. Delivery expected 2017.

The Rapido Amtrak NPCU is available in five different paint schemes: Amtrak Phase III, Amtrak Phase IV, Amtrak Phase IV Downeaster, Amtrak Phase V (Swoosh!) and Amtrak California. Several road number options are available for each scheme. There is also an undecorated model.

Amtrak F40PH With Ditch Lights

Amtrak began to modernize its large EMD F40PH fleet in the late 1990s, installing ditch lights and making a number of body and cab modifications. Rapido's forthcoming model will accurately reflect these changes and will feature a completely new body with recessed step wells and new cab door, as well as upgraded truck sideframes.

VIA Rail Canada Rebuilt F40PH-2D

HO SCALE

Between 2010 and 2012 VIA Rail's F40PH-2 fleet was rebuilt with a separate HEP generator in the rear of the locomotive. At the same time the locomotives were repainted in VIA's green, grey and yellow Renaissance scheme first seen on the P42DC locomotives in 2001.

Our model features an all-new body with accurate HEP generator details, including radiator fans, rads and cabling visible through the grilles. It is available in ten different road numbers and undecorated.

We're also offering a special limited run of locomotive #6403, which became famous after appearing on the new polymer Canadian $10 banknote in 2013. We're hiding uncirculated Canadian $10 bills in 50 of the model boxes.
