Baptism of Thomas James Webb Sunday, August 27

We gathered under the tall trees on the grassy lawn, meeting each other, eating, playing, and celebrating. It is not an unusual experience for St. Markers to gather and eat with people. But this event was different. For you see those gathered were not just from St. Mark, but also from Lutheran Church of Martha and Mary as well as Grace Lutheran. And it wasn't just Lutherans gathered, but Muslims as well, with friends from the Turkish American Society present. This was my experience at the Refugee Resettlement Summerfest this past month. There was something powerful about seeing some of you gathered at tables deep in conversation with women wearing the burka, with people from a different culture than you, celebrating the work we are able to do, to resettle a family from Syria, when we gathered our resources together. There was beauty in this gathering.

We gathered after the events in Charlottesville, seeking to bring together people for a prayer vigil; people from various churches, synagogues, mosques; people from different Northwest Suburbs. By the time you read this the Shine a Light Together prayer vigil will have taken place. There is beauty in this gathering.

We came together on a Sunday afternoon to dream and plan. And God moved through our gathering and called us to look beyond ourselves, to this wider community in which we live. Our council retreat was filled with ideas and plans for ways to gather the community beyond our doors for events and growth. There was beauty in that gathering, as well as beauty in the gatherings that will come from those ideas.

Sometimes in my life I notice patterns, things coming together, repeating themselves in different forms. As I survey these scenes from the picnic, the prayer vigil, and the council retreat, I see a distinct pattern. God is gathering. God is gathering people for amazing awe-inspiring ministry to the world.

Every week in worship we start with the Gathering. We confess our sins and hear God's forgiveness so that we can move beyond those things that often prevent us from gathering. We come together in song. We greet each other with words of peace. We pray. God is gathering us each week to be community.

In the month of September, our community life together will focus on gathering. We will gather back together after summers full of vacations and pauses from regularly scheduled programming. We will gather to bless young people as they return to school with a backpack blessing on Sept. 17. We will gather supplies for health and school kits for Lutheran World Relief. We will gather together for God's Work, Our Hands/ Rally Day on Sunday, September 17 for a community-wide picnic as well as to assemble those kits. And we will gather to bless our quilts and kits and send them off into the world on September 24.

Gather us in God. Gather us in!

In Christ,
Pr. Christie

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 7:30 P.M.

The 500th anniversary of the beginning of the Reformation—when Protestant churches broke off from Catholicism—provides an opportunity to take a closer look at this religious movement's towering figure: the German monk turned rebel Martin Luther.

Rather than focusing on his theological philosophy, German Historian Anette Isaacs will explore Luther's colorful and riveting life story and provide captivating insights into daily life in the 16th century, thus painting a fascinating picture of this highly dramatic episode in the history of humankind.

Spaces have been reserved for St. Markers. Contact Dianne Quast at 847-635-7773 if you are interested in attending.

The Gifts of Baptism

By Deacon Dave

As we have been preparing for Thomas' baptism day a few verses from the text from Romans have been staying with me: "Present your bodies as a living sacrifice" and later in the text, "For as in one body we have many members, and not all the members have the same function, so we, who are many, are one body in Christ, and individually we are members one of another. We have gifts that differ according to the grace given to us." Usually when we talk about the gifts of baptism we talk about the forgiveness of sins, the gift of faith, or God's abiding presence, but the gifts of a name and a community are the ones I am most thinking about right now.

Maybe it is because Pr. Christie and I put so much effort into giving a name to Thomas James or because Thomas was born on the Feast of St. Mark or because he has such a wonderful community around him at church or because he just loves to come to church and see you all already that the gift of a name and a community are the two things that bring me the most joy right now. On Sunday, August 27, he got to be in the midst of his family and friends as we all promise to make him a part of the holy family. God named and claimed this little one "beloved" and marked Thomas with God's very own name.

As he gets older, we will continue to tell him about this day and teach him how to celebrate it! We will tell him about the people who were there that day in person and in spirit. We will tell him about all those people who love him so dearly, especially about the ones he does not see so much anymore, the ones who have gone on before, our dearly departed. The ones whose love is still with us, the great cloud of witnesses, the ones for whom he is named, the ones who held him when he was young, the ones whose love made us who we are. And, we will remind him of the gifts that you gave him, especially the immaterial ones: the prayers, the blessings, and the wisdom. We will teach him about this special place, this holy family and loving community, this great cloud of witnesses that is present and most especially so when we gather at the font or at the table to worship God. And, together we will teach him how to share in the gratitude of an overflowing heart the gifts God gave us with the whole community. Our hearts will be filled with joy to see God's love and grace working in a new generation to inaugurate the continued coming of the Kingdom. Amen.

Thoughts from the Loft

Did you know that the musical term for a round is a canon? The most obvious that comes to mind is "Row, Row, Row Your Boat." Several hymns can be sung in canon! Two that come to mind are "God, Who Stretched the Spangled Heavens" (ELW #771) and "All Praise to Thee, My God, This Night" (ELW #565). The use of canon goes back centuries and lead to more complex counterpoint, or the use of several melodies to create a whole piece. Very cool, in my humble opinion!

Blessings,
Tim

How we are blessed being a part of St. Mark

The first Sunday after we moved into Queretaro was the day after we left Chicago. We were staying at a hotel, looking out the window and feeling we are still part of you-sitting in the church praying with you.

Two and an half years ago, we came from Japan for Manabu's job transfer to Chicago. Experiencing moving a few times, it always takes a while until we feel the new town as our home. Being Japanese expatriates living in Illinois, there are a few things that made us amazed, such as magnificent views stretching as far as the horizon, the richness of nature in this land, the size of grocery stores and its items compared to Japan.

Sunday worship was also one of culture shock - as Japanese the social phenomenon of many of us is no religion. We don't have religious education in Japan, usually we learn about God's existence from older people through various seasonal festivals still left in Japan. We were curious about what was going on in the Church but never went in there because not knowing about God made us feel scared to be there. Until one summer Sunday, we met Deacon David at the Church entrance. He was smiling, welcoming and escorted us to a seat. On that morning I was taking my boys on a walk as Manabu was on a business trip for more than one week at that time. We were kind of lost sheep, not knowing where to go and what we wanted to do on that morning. So the boys started peeking in the St. Mark Church entrance and here we are. Since then we can't stop exploring God's love and works.

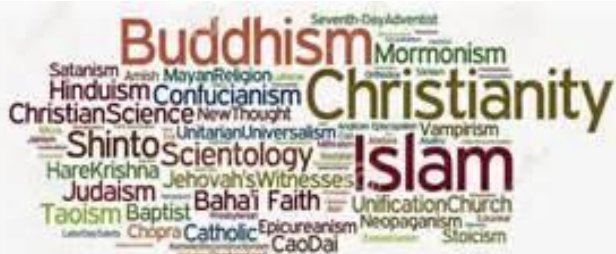

Pastor Christie and Deacon David were spending time with us, even using their private time for us, to teach and talk about being Christians. Mrs. Galyon always gave us a warm welcome and a big hug and invited my 3 boys to play in her office. We can't put into words our appreciation of how much love we received from this Church. We feel every one of you are part of our family, which made us not lonely and we always looked forward to visiting Sunday worship to see you again.

We had only two Easters there after we were baptized. Two years may be too short to learn about God. But we pledge that we are Christians and we chose it with all of your support. Learning from the bible what Jesus told us makes our life more rich and we found God's abundant love through praying. Knowing we are all connected under one God eases our loneliness. But we do miss you and St. Mark so much now.

Thank you so much for being with us. You are our treasure that we found in St. Mark. We will always keep you all in our prayers. Please visit us in Queretaro, Mexico.

Sincerely,
The Saito family

Council Retreat

On a Sunday afternoon in August, your 2017-2018 Council met for a council retreat. The theme of our gathering was "Making All Things New," stemming from Isaiah 43:19 "I am about to do a new thing; now it springs forth, do you not perceive it? I will make a way in the wilderness and rivers in the desert."

After some reflection on our goals from last year with celebrations of things accomplished and recognition of areas that still need attention, we moved into dreaming and planning. We began by asking the question: Where is God leading and calling this congregation? Overwhelmingly response was to reconnect with community: to bring the church community to another generation, to connect with people who don't have good experience with churches, to stand for welcome and inclusivity, to reconnect with the Mt. Prospect community. We are called to teach, guide and mentor, to empower people to use their gifts, to create a vibrant worship experience, to feed people, and look to long term plans for this place we all love.

With these things in mind, we then moved into an asset mapping experience where we brainstormed all the gifts we have here at St. Mark, then considered how we can combine those gifts into new action items. The most energy came through in ideas for community events. Our plan is to have 3-4 community events over the year. Our first event will be a community picnic for God's Work Our Hands on Sunday, September 17. Other ideas included Open Gym on Sunday afternoon in the winter months, Food Truck Friday in our parking lot, game nights, madrigal dinner and outdoor movies. Other interest involved developing Men's Ministry, especially in regard to building/fixing things as well as a ROMEEO (Retired Old Men Eating Out) breakfast club, connecting and deepening ministry with our missionary in Israel, continuing care for outdoor spaces, and many cooking and feeding people ideas (Is there a St. Mark Pizza Oven in our future? Or a Chopped Cooking Competition?)

Our time together was full of energy, inspiration and joy in the call to share the good gifts of St. Mark with a wider and wider community. Stay tuned for more information and inquiries about where you might be interested in participating.
