2018 BIG GAME AWARDS BANQUET KEYNOTE SPEAKER

TOM OPRE

An Adventure Filmmaker

A film director, cinematographer, television producer, and wildlife conservationist, Tom Opre has made educating the public on wildlife conservation and stewardships issues a main priority. As the past president of the Professional Outdoor Media Association (POMA), he has worked to help other outdoor communicators and industry leaders understand and present a unified message regarding the top issues facing wildlife conservation today.

Since 1990, Opre has produced and/or directed national television commercial projects for Fortune 500 companies, feature films and episodic television including wildlife projects for Discovery Channel and PBS. In 2015, he wrapped a seven year prime-time run on NBC Sports producing the highest rated, award-winning, television show in the outdoor fieldsports genre, Eye of the Hunter™.

Today, he serves on several non-profit boards including African Children's Schools. He currently serves as the president and chairman of the board of directors for International Conservation Coalition (ICC), a 501(c)(3), a non-profit with a mission to promote broader public understanding and the critical importance of modern day wildlife conservation and habitat stewardship - globally.

Opre lives in the Flathead Valley of Montana with his wife Olivia; a travel specialist and wildlife advocate, and their four children.

Sincerely yours,

Jeff Smith
