

“LIVING A JEWISH YEAR”

A year dedicated to studying and experiencing the holidays contained within the Jewish calendar and attempting to make a case for their continued relevancy in our present day and age.

This year we are embarking on an Adult Education journey in which we individually reconnect with Judaism thru the exploration of the Jewish Holidays and Commemorative Days. The course will evolve around the book “My Jewish Year - 18 holidays, one wondering Jew” by Abigail Pogrebin.

This well-known author recognizes later in life that she is functionally illiterate when it comes to the structure of her own religion (and now the religion of her children). She seeks to learn more while maintaining a sense of objectivity as to what resonates with her and what does not. It’s a story about the search for meaningful religious experience in our time.

How might you benefit from this course ?

You should significantly increase your understanding of the holidays and commemorative days.

You will be encouraged to view the holidays from a fresh perspective, remaining open minded, but also looking at them both critically and analytically.

You will be tasked with identifying the most relevant elements within the holidays, and seeking ways to apply them within the times in which we live.

So we invite you to purchase the book and begin your reading— we look forward to having you join us

Wednesday Evenings at 7 PM

Class dates: Oct 25, Nov 1, Nov 8,

Nov 15, Nov 29, Dec 6

Class facilitators are Rabbi Weizman, Rabbi Upbin and Paul Applefield