

The Spirituality of Stewardship: Practical Suggestions for Making Stewardship A Way of Life

Dan Conway

Dan Conway is a leader in the field of mission advancement who has helped redefine the meaning of stewardship in the Catholic Church in the United States and beyond.

Since 1979, Dan has worked with dozens of Catholic dioceses, seminaries, religious communities, parishes, and schools in the areas of planning, communications, stewardship education, and fundraising. He has served as chief development officer for Marian University and three Roman Catholic archdioceses (Louisville, Indianapolis, and Chicago), and has provided consulting leadership for diocesan capital stewardship campaigns throughout the United States. Dan has facilitated strategic planning for more than a dozen Catholic dioceses, religious communities, seminaries, colleges, and universities in the Midwest and South. Dan also provides workshops for Catholic dioceses and seminaries in all regions of the continental United States and several other countries.

As a globally-recognized author, speaker, and consultant, Dan writes a monthly article that is widely distributed to Catholic and other faith-based organizations.

Dan is a graduate of Saint Meinrad College (BA), Indiana University (MA), and St. Meinrad School of Theology (MRE).
