STEVE MURPHEY NAMED NEW DMF DIRECTOR

Steve Murphey will serve as the new director for the Division of Marine Fisheries. Steve is already on the job.

Braxton Davis, who has been Director for nearly two years, returns to his primary position as Director of the Division of Coastal Management.

Murphey began his career with the Division of Marine Fisheries in 1987 as a biologist, with interim service from 1999 to 2010 in the Division of Environmental Health, returning to Marine Fisheries in 2010. His most recent position with DMF was as the section chief for Habitat and Enhancement.

NCFA extends congratulations to Steve on his appointment and best wishes to Braxton Davis for a job well done during his tenure.
