4 Thanksgiving Pet Tips!

STUFF YOURSELF, NOT THE PETS!

Rich Thanksgiving foods can cause upset stomach and pancreatitis.

NO PETS IN THE KITCHEN!

A hungry pet can get in a lot of trouble near the culinary creation.

NO ROOZE HOUNDS!

Don't leave alcoholic drinks or open containers within paw's reach.

TAKE OUT THE TRASH!

It may be tempting for your pet to knock it over and have some leftovers.

Happy Thanksgiving!

SAFETY REMINDER ON FOODS.....

We all like to share goodies with our Dobermans from time to time, so here are a few Do's and Don'ts

Chocolate – NO - This isn't just an old wives' tale. Chocolate contains a very toxic substance called methylxanthines, which are stimulants that stop a dog's metabolic process. Even just a little bit of chocolate, especially dark chocolate, can cause diarrhea and vomiting. A large amount can cause seizures, irregular heart function, and even death. Do not have chocolate in an accessible location.

Macadamia nuts – NO - These are some of the most poisonous foods for dogs. Macadamia nuts, part of the Protaceae family, can cause vomiting, increased body temperature, inability to walk, lethargy, and vomiting. Even worse, they can affect the nervous system. Never feed your pets macadamia nuts.

Grapes and Raisins - NO - Although many people have often fed grapes as treats to their dogs, this has now been found to sometimes have deadly results. The ASPCA Poison Control Center states that, "Although the toxic substance within grapes and raisins is unknown, these fruits can cause kidney failure." Even if you have given grapes to a dog in the past without incident, don't assume it won't cause severe illness the next time.

Avocado - NO - Avocados contain persin which is toxic to dogs. Persin is found in the fruit as well as the seed, leaves and bark of avocados. Keep all parts of the avocado from your dog's reach, as well as any foods that contain avocado.

Eggs – Yes. Eggs are safe for dogs as long as long as they are fully cooked. Cooked eggs are a wonderful source of protein and can help an upset stomach. However, eating raw egg whites can give dogs biotin deficiency, so be sure to cook the eggs all the way through before giving them to your pet.

Peanut butter – Yes. Just like whole peanuts, peanut butter is an excellent source of protein for dogs. It contains heart-healthy fats, vitamins B and E and niacin. Raw, unsalted peanut butter is the healthiest option because it doesn't contain xylitol, a sugar substitute that can be toxic to dogs.

Yogurt – Yes. Plain yogurt is a perfectly acceptable snack for dogs. It is rich with protein and calcium. The active bacteria in yogurt can help strengthen the digestive system with probiotics. Be sure to skip over yogurts with added sugars and artificial sweeteners.

Honey – Yes. Honey is packed with countless nutrients such as vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and K, potassium, calcium, magnesium, copper, and antioxidants. Feeding dogs a tablespoon of local honey twice a day can help with allergies because it introduces small amounts of pollen to their systems, building up immunity to allergens in your area. In addition to consuming honey, the sticky spread can also be used as a topical treatment for burns and superficial cuts.
