DIGITAL FILMMAKING

- An extra sync cable would be helpful if students have a phone or tablet they can use to shoot film. If you're concerned they are clumsy, you may want to invest in a ruggedized case of some kind. I recommend Otterbox.
- Earbuds or headphones - while it isn't necessary to have awesome headphones, if a student is very interested in the audio portion of editing film, they may prefer headphones over earbuds.
- a 1½" binder or larger with 5 tabs - label the tabs Scripts, Storyboards, Ideas & Pitches, Assignments, and Paper - put some lined paper in the paper tab
- Pens and pencils. (I love the Frixion colored pens for student filmmakers because they are erasable and make it easy to edit storyboards and scripts but they are a bit expensive as pens go.)
- Start now praying over and discussing ideas for short films that can teach someone about one of the fruits of the spirit (Galatians 5:22-23) these will be at most 2-3 minutes. Start noticing movie scenes and sequences that you like and why. Keeping an idea book is a great idea for those who are interested in filmmaking.
