Synopsis:

ISPE SF Programs Committee has developed a late afternoon event to provide our Members an overview of the South San Francisco Biotech Marketplace. Current speakers include a Project Director for Astra Zeneca, the South San Francisco City Manager and a representative from HCP, a real-estate developer. Each speaker will provide a presentation. Presentations will be followed by a panel discussion lead by a member of the ISPE programs committee with audience participation.

The event is meant to explore ideas on why South San Francisco is such a hot market for Biotech, what this means for emerging technologies and what effect the market and new emerging technologies will have for the young, modern bay area work force.
