ATLANTA | NOV. 4 – 8
CREATING THE HEALTHIEST NATION:
CLIMATE CHANGES HEALTH

Social Work Colleagues –

The Public Health Social Work (PHSW) Section of the American Public Health Association invites you to submit abstracts for the 2017 Annual Conference in Atlanta, GA from November 4th-8th, 2017

Click here to learn more about APHA: <https://www.apha.org/events-and-meetings/annual>

The 2017 Annual Conference theme: Climate Change

Deadline for Abstract Submissions is February 22, 2017

Public Health Social Work Special Focus Areas include (but are not limited to):

- Social Determinants of Health and Climate Change
- Enhancing Health (including Mental Health) with Vulnerable Populations (e.g., immigrants, LGBTQ, military/veterans, indigenous populations)
- Health, Health Equity and Social Justice
- Interprofessional Collaborations Across Education and Practice
- Meeting the Needs of Dual Degree Students: Current Programming and Innovative Approaches
- Public Health Social Work Across the Lifespan (youth, aging etc)
- Models of Public Health Social Work Prevention and Intervention
- Effective Public Health Social Work Responses to our Changing Political Landscape

PHSW encourages individuals who have never presented at APHA to become "new presenters" in 2017. Students and new professionals are encouraged to submit abstracts for either poster or oral presentations. Be sure to indicate "new presenter" and/or "student" on your submission. Students whose presentations are of excellent quality will be considered for the section's Robert H. Keefe Outstanding Student Paper Award and receive a conference-fee waiver.

In addition to PHSW Dual-Degree Roundtables for Students and Faculty, we will be sponsoring several Public Health Social Work 'Student-Only' Sessions. We especially encourage MSW/MPH dual degree students to submit abstracts!
